CONCERN OVER UNCONTROLLED ACTIVITIES OF CIA

A Tass report in Vechernyaya Moskva, 25 January 1966, referred to Senator Eugene McCarthy's motion to organize a special subcommittee for foreign affairs "for the purpose of a full and detailed study of the influence of CIA activities on US foreign policy."

The article stated that "the adventurous activities of the Central Intelligence Agency have long aroused the dissatisfaction and concern of the American people.... However, the attempts of US Congressmen to establish congressional control over CIA activities have so far failed completely. Meanwhile, the CIA continues to increase its influence on US foreign policy and has considerably encroached upon the State Department."
